

Midland–Odessa Home Price Increases Outpace the State’s

Home prices in Midland and Odessa have risen considerably in 2018 (Chart 6). Growth between fourth quarter 2017 and second quarter 2018 was 10.2 percent in Midland and 11.7 percent in Odessa, compared with the Texas average of 3.4 percent.

Chart 6
Home Price Index

Index, first quarter 2010 = 100*

*Seasonally adjusted.

SOURCES: Federal Housing Finance Agency Home Price Index; author's calculations.

NOTES: Data are for the Midland–Odessa metropolitan statistical area (Martin, Midland and Ector counties), except for energy data, which cover the 55 counties in West Texas and southern New Mexico that make up the Permian Basin region. Data may not match previously published numbers due to revisions.

About Permian Basin Economic Indicators

Questions can be addressed to Dylan Szeto at Dylan.Szeto@dal.frb.org. Permian Basin Economic Indicators is released on the third Wednesday of every month.